About Dana Brownlee

If you're seeking a DEI academician, Dana Brownlee may not be for you. Dana's focus isn't DEI theory. Instead she blends nearly two decades of experience as a sought after leadership expert and team building facilitator with three decades of personal experience as a Black woman working in and around corporate America to provide an engaging experience that's down to earth and relatable while insightful and profound. Author of The Unwritten Rules of Managing Up (Berrett-Koehler, 2019), Ms. Brownlee is an acclaimed thought leader around managing difficult personalities, navigating challenging situations and speaking truth to power. Author of several LinkedIn Learning courses including How to Speak Up Against Racism at Work and Supporting Allyship and Anti-Racism at Work, her talks represent the nexus of her business expertise and inherent passion around anti-racism progress. Her expertise has been featured by CNN, Forbes, The Wall Street Journal, The Economist, Working Mother, Entrepreneur and others. If you're ready to take small steps towards big progress, Dana can help.
